Wildlife organizations in the US say that Halloween decorations can do damage to wildlife. A lot of wild animal injuries are related to the outdoor holiday decorations. For example, wild animals can easily get stuck in fake cobwebs when they are strung across bushes and trees. Birds can damage their wings and claws if they are caught in fake cobwebs. The low-to-the ground animals, such as chipmunks, can also get caught and hurt their paws. A staff member of a nature education center in San Rafael, California said, "If you observe an animal in trouble, always call a wildlife center before intervening." He also suggested that Halloween decorations should not be left up for an extended period. It is good to be mindful and remove the decorations as soon as you are done celebrating.

36. What would be a good title for the passage?
(A) How to make Halloween decorations less harmful to wildlife
(B) How to make Halloween decorations for wild animals
(C) Injured birds and chipmunks on Halloween
(D) Wildlife struggling in fake cobwebs
37. In line 3, what does "get stuck" mean?
(A) escape
(B) climb up
(C) run away
(D) be unable to move
38. Which of the following may hurt wild animals?
(A) staff members
(B) fake cobwebs
(C) wildlife organizations
(D) bushes
39. In line 8, what does "mindful" mean?
(A) aware of something
(B) kind
(C) interested in something
(D) creative
40. If you see a raccoon caught in a fake cobweb, you should _____.
(A) try to get it out of the fake cobweb
(B) call an ambulance
(C) phone a wildlife organization
(D) walk away
