The holiday season is a time for celebrating with friends and family. It is often called the "giving season" because during the holidays people give gifts and have celebrations. Unfortunately, this can all lead to a lot of waste. Some parts of the holidays create a lot of waste such as holiday cards, decorations, entertaining, and gift wrap. We should think about how to reduce the amount of waste we create. Take gift wrap for example. The concern about paper waste has caused many people to look at other choices for wrapping a present. It is suggested to keep gift bags and other decorations that you receive. You can reuse them the next time you give a gift. You can also wrap gifts in old maps, pages from magazines, and art paper. In Japan, it is a tradition to wrap gifts in cloth. The pretty and strong wrapping cloths can be used for other things, instead of just thrown away. Furthermore, you could also wrap a gift in a colorful scarf or tablecloth. This makes the wrapping cloth part of the gift itself. Instead of decorating a gift with something plastic, you can use something natural such as pine cones, rosemary, or other evergreens.
