Dogs love going outside to play. It is important for their health that they get lots of exercise. If you are a dog owner, taking your dog for a walk should be a regular activity. However, there is a danger you should be aware of, particularly during summer. Dogs get heatstroke when the temperature gets so hot that they can't cool themselves down. Some signs of heatstroke in dogs include uncontrollable panting, vomiting, slowness, and foaming at the mouth. Their tongue might also change color from pink to gray. To lower the risk of heatstroke, walk your dog either early in the morning or late in the evening when the sun isn't so strong, take regular breaks in the shade, give your dog a cooling drink, and avoid asphalt roads as they heat up dangerously in the sun.
