Dear Mr. Wang,

Thank you for your letter on June 3rd. Please accept my sincerest apologies for the mix-up. We have tracked your order and we have already shipped the remaining sunglasses to your site. You should receive it this afternoon. It seems that 2 different invoices were written up somehow, and our delivery staff simply filled the wrong order. We apologize for any delays.

Because you are a valued customer of Johnson Corp., I would like to offer you a special discount on Johnson products, as a way of making amends. Enclosed in this letter is a book of coupons that you may use whenever you place an order with us. We have also refunded 20% of the charge for your previous order in the form of a check for $200.

Sincerely,

Betty Jackson
